

WCS Community Guidelines (QA Forum)

The QA forum is intended as a place where students can ask for help with classes, community, opportunities, and more from their peers. To maintain a positive and helpful environment, please follow the guidelines prescribed in this document.

- Honesty is appreciated, but make sure to keep conversation respectful toward all parties involved, including any individuals who may be the subject of the conversation, but are not actively involved in it
- Avoid posting content that could violate academic integrity guidelines
- This is not a place to post advertisements as questions – contact illinoiswcs@gmail.com to have an opportunity placed on the External Opportunities Board
- Avoid spammy content (posting the same thing repeatedly in a way that doesn't further contribute to the conversation)
- Do not make posts that don't align with WCS's commitment to an inclusive and welcoming environment

Disclaimer

Individuals who answer questions will receive 0.5 WCS points for each answer. The WCS Board has the right to deduct points awarded for answering questions on the Forum if the answer is inappropriate, doesn't meet the community guidelines above, or is irrelevant to the question (ex. replying "idk" to every question would indicate to us that the user is trying to get points by spamming the forum).

Content posted on the forum should not be considered as official content endorsed by WCS. The purpose of the forum is to create a free space where students can anonymously voice their questions or concerns in a welcoming community. We do not stand with any comments that do not meet the community guidelines above or do not align with our stance and mission. For now, please email illinoiswcs@gmail.com to report content that you feel does not align with the guidelines we have indicated thus far.
